

Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 14 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Breezy but mild with sunny spells for Monday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Wet night across the region, with a band of rain lingering through the evening and moving eastwards overnight. Rain clearing during the early hours with clear spells and some patchy fog to follow. Breezy but milder than recently. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Monday:
Any lingering fog fading through the early morning, then a dry and mostly bright day with sunny intervals. A band of rain arriving overnight, moving northeastwards. Breezy but much milder. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Blustery showers on Tuesday with bright spells at times. Showers continue through Wednesday before becoming mostly cloudy with further rain overnight. Drier on Thursday with the odd shower. Windy throughout.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.